

COMPASSIONATE
COMMUNITIES

Palliative care helps the whole family cope
with a serious and progressive illness. True

Palliative care provides care for the person with the illness and to those closest to them. From the point of diagnosis, a person's family will need support with accepting how the future has changed, with caregiving, with grief and bereavement. Support is provided to help families navigate the challenges they will face during their loved one's illness, death and bereavement.