

COMPASSIONATE COMMUNITIES

One aim of palliative care is to help people
better understand their treatment options. True

Providing information about treatment options in a way that people can understand is an important element of palliative care. In understanding available options people can make informed decisions about their care and make plans for the future.